Standing on Sacred Ground

A DOCUMENTARY FILM SERIES
BY THE SACRED LAND FILM PROJECT

MEDIA KIT

Sacred Land Film Project
info@sacredland.org
StandingOnSacredGround.org
510-850-9190
SYNOPSIS

Indigenous communities around the world and in the U.S. resist threats to their sacred places—the original protected lands—in a growing movement to defend human rights and restore the environment.

In this four-part documentary series, native people share ecological wisdom and spiritual reverence while battling a utilitarian view of land in the form of government megaprojects, consumer culture, and resource extraction as well as competing religions and climate change.

Narrated by Graham Greene, with the voices of Tantoo Cardinal and Q’orianka Kilcher, the series exposes threats to native peoples’ health, livelihood, and cultural survival in eight communities around the world. Rare verité scenes of tribal life allow indigenous people to tell their own stories—and confront us with the ethical consequences of our culture of consumption.

STANDING ON SACRED GROUND EPISODES

Pilgrims and Tourists. Indigenous shamans of the Altai Republic, Russia (southern Siberia), and a northern California tribe find common ground resisting government megaprojects.

Profit and Loss. From Papua New Guinea to the tar sands of Alberta, Canada, native people fight the loss of land, water and health to mining and gas industries.

Fire and Ice. From the Gamo Highlands of Ethiopia to the Andes of Peru, indigenous communities protect their sacred lands from development, competing religions and climate change.

Islands of Sanctuary. Aboriginal Australians and Native Hawaiians reclaim land and resist the erosion of culture and the environment.
DIRECTOR’S STATEMENT BY CHRISTOPHER (TOBY) MCLEOD

Thirty-five years ago, listening to Hopi elders, I first understood the message of a chorus of indigenous voices around the world: that the environmental crisis is a spiritual crisis—the absence of a conscious connection to land and water inevitably leads to violence and threatens all life. Each film I have produced explores this environmental-spiritual crisis, and reveals the clash between proponents of a utilitarian view of private property and communities that bear responsibility for sacred land. The films spark dialogue about western culture’s relationship to nature and the growing global yearning to reconcile with native people and the earth.

In the spring of 2005, I was invited to screen my last film, In the Light of Reverence, in Tokyo at a UNESCO conference on sacred sites, biodiversity and cultural landscapes. Hundreds of people attended and I was amazed at the rapidly growing international interest in this issue, and the sense of urgency about threats to sacred places around the world. Indigenous people are asserting their land rights on every continent and it became clear to me that these stories need to be documented on film—now.

The Standing on Sacred Ground film series is simultaneously an amazing opportunity and a heart-breaking challenge. It is the culmination of seven years of preparation, and is only possible because of the good will and trust generated by past works and long-standing relationships. My goal is to artfully and accurately tell stories of indigenous peoples’ resistance to the destruction of sacred places, and to use this to inform, inspire, and give strength and hope to others. These stories of conflict and triumph are doorways that transform our perception. It is a privilege to be granted access to these communities and their spiritual practices, and we are aware of the great responsibility we have, to both our subjects and our audience, to produce meaningful films that aid traditional cultures in their struggles.

Support for indigenous worldviews and values—and protection of sacred places—strengthens the earth's biological and cultural diversity. This makes the world a healthier and more vibrant place. A sustained international effort is already transforming public awareness of issues surrounding sacred natural sites. Cultures are banding together to defend against attacks on their resources and their past—and our common future. The time for this transformative film series has arrived.

After I returned home from my visit to Japan, a Hopi friend, Leonard Selsetewa, and his wife and daughter visited my family in the Santa Cruz Mountains of California. We took them to see the towering redwoods near our home. Standing by a clear stream in the green forest, the desert-dwelling corn farmers experienced the tall trees’ magic. The place brought back a memory for Leonard: “My grandfather told me: ‘To be Hopi, your prayers have to encompass the entire world.’”

Preserving what we love at home and beyond has never been a greater challenge. Listening to native people and learning from them has never been more crucial. They have preserved the ancient wisdom that we are part of nature, not separate, and that what happens to nature happens to us. Indigenous communities nurture the values that can sustain us in the future and help keep the earth alive.
ABOUT THE SACRED LAND FILM PROJECT

Standing on Sacred Ground was produced by the Sacred Land Film Project, a project of Earth Island Institute since 1984. To deepen public understanding of sacred places, indigenous cultures and environmental justice, the Film Project produces a variety of media and educational materials—films, videos, DVDs, articles, photographs, school curricula and other materials. The Film Project uses journalism, organizing and activism to rekindle reverence for land, increase respect for cultural diversity, stimulate dialogue about connections between nature and culture, and protect sacred lands and diverse spiritual practices. Our last film, In the Light of Reverence, continues to be widely screened, and used in schools and universities.

STANDING ON SACRED GROUND PRODUCTION CREW

Christopher (Toby) McLeod, Producer/Director. Toby McLeod circled the globe for five years filming the Standing on Sacred Ground series. McLeod founded the Sacred Land Film Project in 1984 to make high-impact documentary films relevant to indigenous communities and modern audiences. He produced and directed In the Light of Reverence (P.O.V., 2001) and other award-winning documentary films: The Four Corners: A National Sacrifice Area?, Downwind/Downstream, and NOVA: Poison in the Rockies. Awards include the Council on Foundation's Henry Hampton Award, the John de Graaf Environmental Filmmaking Award, a Guggenheim Fellowship for filmmaking and a Student Academy Award in 1983. His first film was The Cracking of Glen Canyon Damn—with Edward Abbey and Earth First! McLeod holds a master's degree from U.C. Berkeley's Graduate School of Journalism and a B.A. in American History from Yale.

Jessica Abbe, Writer and Co-Producer. Co-produced Angle of Inspiration, a 2004 PBS documentary about the effect on the small town of Redding, California, of a startling new bridge by world-renowned architect Santiago Calatrava. Writing credits include Power Paths (2008), about the Native American movement toward renewable energy development, and In the Light of Reverence. Wrote and produced documentaries on AIDS and San Francisco history. Helped start Bay Area Backroads, the highest-rated local program during her tenure as producer, and worked for two years with director Francis Ford Coppola and author Diane Johnson on a screenplay about the search for a cure for AIDS. Holds a B.F.A. in dramatic arts from New York University, and a master's degree in journalism from U.C. Berkeley.

Jennifer Huang, Writer and Co-Producer. Documentary filmmaker in San Francisco for 15 years. At Lucasfilm, wrote and produced Harlem's Hellfighters: Black Soldiers of World War I, and contributed to nine other documentary films, with topics ranging from Gertrude Bell to Dracula, from Tin Pan Alley to the Congo. Worked as a writer, field producer and associate producer on productions for PBS, Travel Channel, HGTV, TNT and AZN TV, and co-founded Hyphen, an Asian American news and culture magazine. Holds a B.A. in Social Welfare and Ethnography through Cinema from U.C. Berkeley.

Marta Wohl, Editor (Profit and Loss, Fire and Ice). Freelance film/video editor with 20 years experience in editing and producing documentary, educational, corporate and broadcast film and video. Recent film credits include Irena Sendler: In the Name of Their Mothers (2011), Claiming the Title: Gay Olympics on Trial (2009), Don't Know, We'll See: The Life and Work of Karen Karnes (2008), Trading Bows and Arrows for Laptops (2008), and Without a Net (2008). Spent four years as the offline editor in the documentary unit at JAK Films, the production arm of Lucasfilm, editing 25 of the 94 companion educational documentaries profiling historical figures of the early 20th century that surfaced in the 44 episodes of The Adventures of Young Indiana Jones television series.
Quinn Costello, Editor (Pilgrims and Tourists, Islands of Sanctuary). Freelance editor and post production supervisor from the Bay Area who has worked on a wide variety of documentaries with an emphasis on environmentalism, social activism and issues pertaining to indigenous communities around the world. His work has been seen on PBS, Sundance Channel and Learning Channel. Post Production Supervisor credits include American Masters—Sam Cooke: Crossing Over. Editing credits include Mustang—Journey of Transformation and Global Focus: The New Environmentalists.

Andrew Black, Videographer. Work includes documentary and feature films released theatrically and broadcast on PBS, BBC, Learning Channel, Channel 4, Sundance Channel, Discovery Channel, IFC and others. Worked with Michael Moore on Fahrenheit 911 and Sicko. Shot The Weather Underground by Sam Green, which was nominated for an Academy Award, Documentary Feature category. Annually shoots Global Focus, a PBS series that features environmentalists from around the world.

Will Parrinello, Videographer. Shot and edited In the Light of Reverence. He was director of photography for the Academy Award-nominated Tell the Truth and Run: George Seldes and the American Press and produced Emile Norman: By His Own Design, Mustang—Journey of Transformation, Dreaming of Tibet, on Tibetan refugees, and Little Italy, on Italian-American culture. He produces segments for films about about the winners of the prestigious Goldman Environmental Prize.

Vicente Franco, Videographer. A producer and cinematographer, he was a 2003 Oscar nominee for Best Documentary for Daughter from Danang, winner of the 2002 Sundance Grand Jury Prize. His credits include the Academy Award nominated documentaries Freedom on My Mind (2004), and The Most Dangerous Man in America (2010), the POV specials Discovering Dominga and Thirst, and the PBS Latin Music USA, In Search of Law and Order and Making Peace. He shot Botany of Desire, and his latest production was Summer of Love, for PBS American Experience the about the San Francisco Haight Ashbury hippie community in 1967.

David Wendlinger, Sound Recordist. Worked on a range of projects worldwide for the BBC, Google, Discovery and National Geographic, among others. Since 2006, worked on short films about about the winners of the prestigious Goldman Environmental Prize.

Erin Lee, Associate Producer/Assistant Editor. Worked in post-production for several films on Caribbean culture and provided support on location for large-scale music festivals on the islands. Currently produces videos for the San Francisco School of Bartending, SF Mixology and the Evolutionary Healing Institute in Miami.

Marlo McKenzie, Associate Producer—New Media. Writer and filmmaker who has worked in theater in Germany, helped to start a video production company that trains homeless youth in Australia. Holds a M.F.A from the College of Fine Arts in Sydney, Australia, where she produced a 30-minute documentary called what brand are you?—reconnoitering happiness, and holds a B.A. in telecommunications and digital media arts from Michigan State University.
SCREENING HISTORY

Church of the Red Rocks, Sedona, AZ
Sedona Public Library, Sedona, AZ
Visionfest LA, Pasadena Center for the Arts
In the Tar Sands of Utah, Vernal, UT
Arizona State University Human Rights Film Festival, Tempe, AZ
Paradigm Shifts Music and Film Festival, New York
Dartmouth College, Hanover, NH
Unitarian Universalist Church of Greater Lansing
Zuni Cultural Resources Advisory Team, Zuni Pueblo
Bacabi Community Center, Bacabi village, Hopi Reservation
International House, UC Berkeley
San Francisco State University
Sacred Land Symposium
International Funders for Indigenous Peoples — World Summit on Indigenous Philanthropy, New York City
Honolulu Museum of Art, Doris Duke Theatre
University of Hawai‘i on the Big Island
University of Hawai‘i at Manoa’s Dai Ho Chun Distinguished Lecturer Series
Visions of the Wild, Vallejo, California
Water, Land and Cultural Survival: Updates on Ongoing Indigenous Struggles in California, San Francisco, California
Cowichan Aboriginal Festival of Film & Art Duncan, BC
Berkeley Public Library, Berkeley, California
Women’s International League for Peace and Freedom Benefit
Church Divinity School of the Pacific Berkeley, California
University of California, Berkeley
David Brower Center, Berkeley, California
Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian, Environmental Film Festival in the Nation’s Capital Wesleyan University Symposium, Middletown, Conn.
Bellingham Human Rights Film Festival, Bellingham
Tofino Film Festival, Tofino, British Columbia
Wild & Scenic Film Festival, Nevada City, California
American Indian Film Festival, San Francisco, Calif.
Bioneers Conference, San Rafael, California
Roxie Theater, San Francisco, California
David Brower Center, Berkeley, California
Mill Valley Film Festival, Mill Valley, California
Cascade Theatre, Redding, California
Multimedia Art Museum, Moscow, Russia
Uch Enmek Mountain, Altai, Russia

Sacred Land Film Project
510-859-9190
slfp@sacredland.org
StandingOnSacredGround.org
FILM FESTIVALS

John de Graaf Environmental Filmmaking Award for Standing on Sacred Ground and for lifetime achievement in documentary film, Wild and Scenic Film Festival, 2014

Best Documentary Feature Award, Native American Film Festival, 2013
CREDITS AND KEY INTERVIEWS

ALL EPISODES
Christopher McLeod, Producer/Director
Graham Greene (Oneida), Narrator

Key Interviews
Satish Kumar, Indian author and philosopher
Winona LaDuke, Anishinaabe activist
Barry Lopez, Author
Oren Lyons, Onondaga Chief

PILGRIMS AND TOURISTS
Jessica Abbe, Writer and Co-Producer
Quinn Costello, Editor
Tantoo Cardinal, Storyteller
Jennifer Huang, Co-Producer
Erin Lee, Associate Producer
Marlo McKenzie, Associate Producer
Ashley Tindall, Associate Producer
Will Parrinello, Director of Photography
Andrew Black, Director of Photography
David Wendlinger, Sound
Jon Herbst, Composer

Altai Production Crew
Chagat Almashev, Field Producer

Key Interviews
Caleen Sisk, Winnemem Wintu Chief
Danil Manyev, Founder of Uch Enmek Nature Park, Altai, Russia

PROFIT AND LOSS
Jennifer Huang, Writer and Co-Producer
Marta Wohl, Editor
Jessica Abbe, Co-Producer
Erin Lee, Associate Producer
Marlo McKenzie, Associate Producer
Ashley Tindall, Associate Producer
Andrew Black, Director of Photography
David Wendlinger, Sound
Jon Herbst, Composer

Key Interviews
John Chitoa, Bismark Ramu Group
Rosa Koian, Bismark Ramu Group
Mike Mercredi, Activist
Clayton Thomas-Muller, Activist
Dr. John O’Connor, Physician
Dr. David Schindler, Ecologist

FIRE AND ICE
Jennifer Huang, Writer and Co-Producer
Marta Wohl, Editor
Q’orianka Kilcher, Storyteller
Jessica Abbe, Co-Producer
Erin Lee, Associate Producer
Marlo McKenzie, Associate Producer
Ashley Tindall, Associate Producer
Andrew Black, Director of Photography
Christopher McLeod, Director of Photography
Vicente Franco, Director of Photography
David Wendlinger, Sound
Wilfredo Ilizarbe, Sound
Tom Disher, Composer

Key Interviews
Makko Wareo, “The father of Milo Mountain,” Ethiopia
Ben Orlove, Anthropologist and glaciologist
Mohamed Ge’as, Minister of Culture and Tourism, Ethiopia
Zerihun Woldu, Ecology Professor, Ethiopia

Sacred Land Film Project
510-859-9190
slfp@sacredland.org
StandingOnSacredGround.org
CREDITS AND KEY INTERVIEWS (CONTINUED)

ISLANDS OF SANCTUARY
Jessica Abbe, Writer and Co-Producer
Quinn Costello, Editor
Rhoda Roberts, Storyteller
Luana Busby-Neff, Storyteller
Jennifer Huang, Co-Producer
Erin Lee, Associate Producer
Marlo McKenzie, Associate Producer
Ashley Tindall, Associate Producer
Will Parrinello, Director of Photography
Andrew Black, Director of Photography
David Wendlinger, Sound
Stefan Smith, Composer
Charles Johnson, Composer
Kawika Kahiapo, Composer

Hawaii Production Crew
Matt Yamashita, Field Producer
Derek Kekaulike Mar, Logistical Coordinator
Joshua Kawika Pastrana, Production Assistant

Australia Production Crew
Charles Roche, Field Producer

Key Interviews
Bardayal Nadjamerrek, Artist and Aboriginal leader, Australia (deceased)
Malarndirri McCarthy, Aboriginal Parliament member, Australia
Brendan Mackey, Australian scientist
Davianna McGregor, History professor, Univ. of Hawaii
Noa Emmett Aluli, Physician and Kaho`olawe activist
Marcia Langton, Chair of Indigenous Studies, University of Melbourne
Patrick Dodson, Ecotrust Australia
TESTIMONIALS AND REVIEWS

Robert Redford, Actor, Director
Beautifully illuminates indigenous peoples’ resistance to environmental devastation and their determination to protect our common future.

Mary Evelyn Tucker and John Grim, Yale Forum on Religion and Ecology
Standing on Sacred Ground is a tour de force! This is one of the most powerful documentary series ever made on indigenous peoples and their resistance to environmental exploitation. Toby McLeod has woven stories of first nations peoples’ resilience amidst images of searing beauty and unimagined destruction. An awakening call indeed that should be heard around the world.

Bill McKibben, Author; Activist; Professor, Middlebury College
Some of the finest minds on the planet are featured in this documentary—and they’re talking about the biggest problems our planet has ever faced!

Dr. Leslie E. Sponsel, Professor Emeritus of Anthropology, University of Hawaii at Manoa; Author, Spiritual Ecology: A Quiet Revolution
This monumental film series is superb in every respect, including the cases, indigenous and other authorities interviewed, historical and political contextualization, and beautiful photography. The films document the fact that throughout the world many sacred places as arenas of peace, power, and reverence for indigenous cultures and their religion and identity are under attack, recklessly transforming them into a focus of conflict, power struggles, desecration, and the violation of human rights. Underlying the cases depicted is a clash of competing spiritual and materialistic worldviews, values, attitudes, and uses of nature.

The films will prove to be of special interest to a wide range of scientific and academic disciplines, government and NGO personnel, and the general public. The series is most relevant for instructors and students in universities, colleges, and high schools for a diversity of subjects such as anthropology, ecology, economic development, environmental studies, globalization, government, history, human rights, indigenous studies, law, social justice, sociology, political science, and religion.

Peter Nabokov, Anthropologist; Professor, UCLA; Author, Where the Lightning Strikes: The Lives of American Indian Sacred Places
Nothing like this riveting series of four desperately-urgent films about the fate of our planet has ever been seen on television. Patiently, lucidly and devastatingly, director Toby McLeod and his team have traveled the globe and painstakingly tracked eight stories of struggles by indigenous peoples to save the ancestral landscapes that have given them sustenance and spiritual anchoring for thousands of years. Standing on Sacred Ground is a magnificent, one-of-a-kind achievement.
With astonishing reportorial skill and scenes of heart-crushing reality, McLeod's years of follow-through allow us to witness at first hand the actual confrontations between long-established native enclaves and the overwhelming odds against them and their ancient ways of life—mammoth dams that poison rivers, immense mining operations that contaminate habitats, animals and humans alike, huge land takeovers for squeezing non-renewable oil and gas that leave dead zones in their wake. In each case these David and Goliath struggles are personified by dramatic confrontations between tribespeople and villagers and the bureaucrats and developers attempting to seize their sacred lands, which are hallowed by a host of pre-Christian belief-systems and worldviews.

In each profile we witness stories that are stand-ins for hundreds if not thousands of similar ecological nightmares that are dooming our planet. Nor are these narratives from Siberia, Peru, Papua New Guinea, Ethiopia and elsewhere nostalgic studies of bygone worldviews. The calm knowledge, profound despair yet persistent resilience exhibited by the lonely grassroots fighters for environmental justice who are the spokespeople in these accounts exemplify the vital point made by one of the film's commentators, prize-winning author Barry Lopez: they are as much concerned about the future of the planet at large as they are about being proper custodians of their separate spiritual heritages. Each is a miner's canary whose mournful but militant cry we fail to heed at our peril.

Containing face-offs at strategic sites, incontrovertible visual documentation of environmental wastelands, poignant voices of clarity and appeal that speak with the grave, quiet wisdom of cultures that have survived centuries of crusades to convert, exterminate, or assimilate them—these four dramatic films keep us on the edge of our seat and at the edge of tears. They absolutely must be seen by every citizen on earth.

Dr. Melissa K. Nelson (Turtle Mountain Chippewa), Associate Professor of American Indian Studies, San Francisco State University; President, Cultural Conservancy; Author, Original Instructions: Indigenous Teachings for a Sustainable Future

Standing on Sacred Ground is an extraordinary film series highlighting the struggles, losses and strengths of indigenous peoples working today to protect their sacred places in an industrialized world. Through beautifully filmed case studies where indigenous leaders speak for themselves, this series illustrates how history, law, science and religion converge in the indigenous world, and how critical these struggles are for the well-being of the planet as a whole.

Rose Aguilar, host of KALW Radio's “Your Call”

You should check out these incredible films. They do a great job of telling the stories we rarely hear about the indigenous people who are standing up to environmental degradation and multinational gas, oil and mining companies. They're also beautifully shot.

San Francisco Chronicle

Epic
Sacred Land Film Project
510-859-9190
slfp@sacredland.org
StandingOnSacredGround.org
MAJOR FUNDING PROVIDED BY

The Christensen Fund
Robert Friede
Kalliopeia Foundation
Grousbeck Family Fund
Silicon Valley Community Foundation
Newman’s Own Foundation
Corporation for Public Broadcasting
Paula R. & William McLeod
Weeden Foundation
Paula & James S. Crown
Compton Foundation
Wallace Alexander Gerbode Foundation
Work-in-Progress Fund, The Tides Foundation
George N. Appell
Annenberg Foundation
Sundance Documentary Fund
Charles Engelhard Foundation
Robert H. and Elizabeth Fergus Foundation
Nu Lambda Trust
Berkeley FILM Foundation
Louise Bowman
Fleishhacker Foundation
LEF Foundation
Polly & Randy Cherner
Theodosia H. Ferguson
And Many Individual Donors

Partial funding for Standing on Sacred Ground has been provided by Pacific Islanders in Communications and Vision Maker Media.

These films are supported by a grant from the Sundance Institute Documentary Film Program and Fund.

For a complete list of funders who supported the Sacred Land Film Project of Earth Island Institute with tax-deductible donations over the past ten years, please send a written request to Sacred Land Film Project, 2150 Allston Way, Suite 440, Berkeley CA 94704.
CONTACTS AND RESOURCES

Christopher (Toby) McLeod, Producer/Director: (510) 859-9190, tm@sacredland.org

For production stills, contact Callie Shanafelt: (510) 859-9190, cs@sacredland.org

DVD distributor:
Bullfrog Films
P.O. Box 149
Oley, PA 19547

Phone: (800) 543-3764 or (610) 779-8226
Fax: (610) 370-1978
Email: video@bullfrogfilms.com
http://www.bullfrogfilms.com/catalog/sgg.html

WEB LINKS

Sacred Land Film Project Website, StandingOnSacredGround.org
Sacred Land History Timeline, StandingOnSacredGround.org/timeline
Standing on Sacred Ground Teacher's Guide, StandingOnSacredGround.org/teach Standing on Sacred Ground Trailer (TRT: 2 minutes), http://StandingOnSacredGround.org/film-series/trailer
Sacred Site Reports (more than 100 in-depth sacred site reports), http://www.SacredLand.org/home/resources/sacred-lands-interactive-map/
YouTube Sacred Land Film Channel, https://www.youtube.com/user/sacredlandfilm Vimeo Links to the Films — available upon request
Sacred Ground iPhone App: Search for “Sacred Ground” in the iPhone App Store, choose Makerlab app and download our free Mato Tipila/Devils Tower National Monument app